You can help make your workplace safer

An ATL health and safety rep is vital in your school or college to ensure colleagues can carry out their jobs in a safe and healthy environment. Encompassing a variety of issues from slips and trips to stress and asbestos, the role of a health and safety rep is interesting and rewarding too. And there's never been a better time to become a rep, with a newly accredited training course and dedicated health and safety advisers on hand to help with any issues.

If your workplace doesn't have an ATL health and safety rep, why not get in touch and find out more by emailing hs@atl.org.uk or calling 020 7782 1598.
