

Do you have enough space to teach?

55% of accidents in schools and colleges are slips and trips and lack of space in the classroom is a major contributory factor. Overcrowded classrooms also make it more difficult for teachers to spend one-to-one time with pupils.

ATL believes all professionals working in schools and colleges should have enough space to teach effectively and are lobbying the Government to ensure that all rooms in which our members work with pupils and students are 'fit for purpose'.
